

GLOBAL BANKING SERVICES

Through its Global Banking Services unit, IDOM provides a range of management consulting and technology services for banks worldwide and is committed to being a long-term information technology partner to its clients.

Services range from business planning to post implementation and include management consulting and training in the use of its own and other vendors' software products. Because its experience lies in the financial sector, IDOM's professional consulting staff understands the complex needs of banks and other institutions and can support virtually any aspect of a client's business expertly.

IDOM provides complete outsourcing of a bank's information technology department and specializes in integrating legacy-banking systems with applications of the latest technologies. It performs seamless migrations from flat file to relational databases and legacy platforms to open system and client-server technologies. Additional services include network support and administration; software implementation; and systems analysis, selection, support and maintenance.

IDOM uses data warehousing and powerful OLAP (online analytical processing) tools to develop enterprise-wide business intelligence solutions for its clients. The company's consultants take information from many front and back office systems throughout the bank turning this into useful information by creating customized views of the data and reports for analysis purposes.

IDOM recognizes the importance to banks' business of a functional contingency plan and provides a comprehensive range of disaster recovery services that can reduce banks' downtime and minimize financial losses in case of emergency.
